

TOXIC TIDES

Has DEWEY met his match in the murk?

The city's lifeline—its water—has been poisoned. As panic boils over, a silent assault floods every pipe and fountain.

CRISIS: WATER CONTAMINATED

NEWS

They poisoned the world without guilt—Now it's their turn to taste the fallout of their own filth!

From the hills beyond the skyline, Dewey sees it - a city parched, polluted... and pleading for help

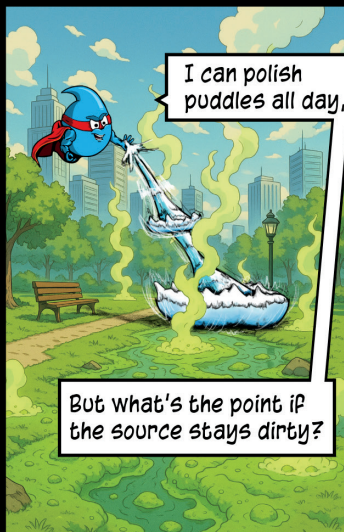

Nice signal. Bad news...
The water is in trouble again.
TIME TO MAKE SOME WAVES!

One look is all it takes. Dewey sees sludge in the streets and contaminants flowing from the fountains. The city is in distress.

I can polish puddles all day,

But what's the point if the source stays dirty?

But even the purest
drop can't cure a poisoned pond. The real battle lies at the source...

Dewey entered the water treatment Facility and found Toxic Girl contaminating the city's water supply, turning every last drop into a deadly toxin.

Don't come any closer, Bubble Trouble...

This city NEEDS clean water! ...and so do YOU!

Clean water? Cute. Let's see you filter THIS!

SZZZRRRKT

She's not just angry...

KRSPLASH

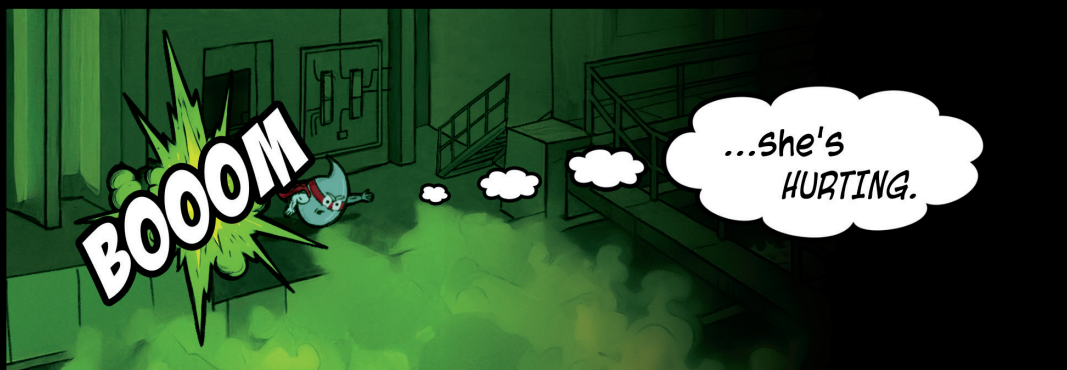

SZZRKT

BOOOM

...she's
HURTING.

Oops, did I just spike the pH?
Looks like you're headed for a meltdown!

SSSHHHH

A close-up of Toxic Girl's face, which is green and has a red visor. She is surrounded by a thick, green, toxic mist. Her eyes are wide and determined.

Do you really think your toxic mist
can stop me?

Toxic Girl is shown from the chest up, shouting with her mouth wide open. There are small starburst effects around her head.

I DON'T CHOKE, I PURIFY!

Toxic Girl is on the left, looking angry. Purity Girl is on the right, holding a large, glowing blue orb. A bright green energy beam is being fired from the orb towards Toxic Girl.

Aww, how noble. Want a medal?
Maybe you should get a gas mask!

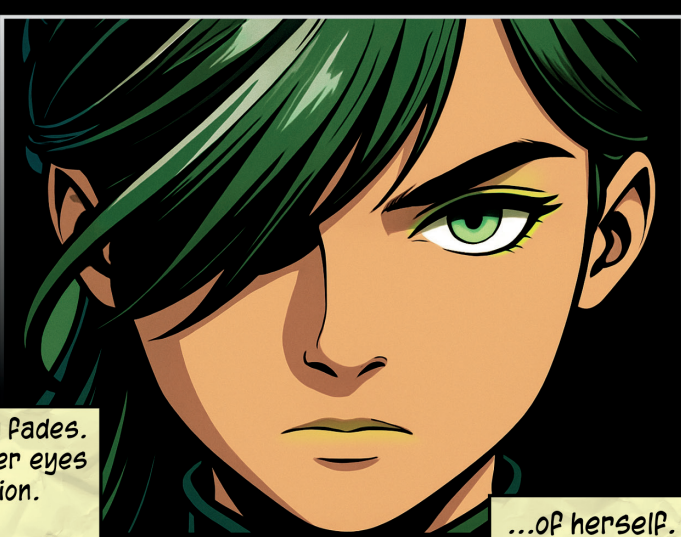

AGH!

KRRSSSHH

What made you so angry?
Is this really who you want to be?

Purity Girl is shown from the chest up, looking surprised with her mouth slightly open. There are small starburst effects around her head.

GASP!

A large, close-up shot of Purity Girl's face. She has a serious, determined expression. Her green hair is flowing, and her green eyes are looking directly forward.

In a heartbeat, Toxic Girl's Purity Fades.
For the first time in forever, her eyes
widen, not in rage, but recognition.

Not of Dewey...

...of herself.

Stunned by Dewey's question, Toxic Girl looks back, not in anger... but in the ache of being unheard.

When I was younger... our town's water turned green.

It made me sick. REAL sick. My skin burned and my stomach twisted.

So, I wrote letter after letter. To the city... the state... anyone who'd listen. But no one did anything.

I stopped asking. I decided to make them see what they chose to ignore!

The silence following Toxic Girl's story isn't empty. It's filled with truth and a sadness Dewey can't ignore.

Let me help you make it right.

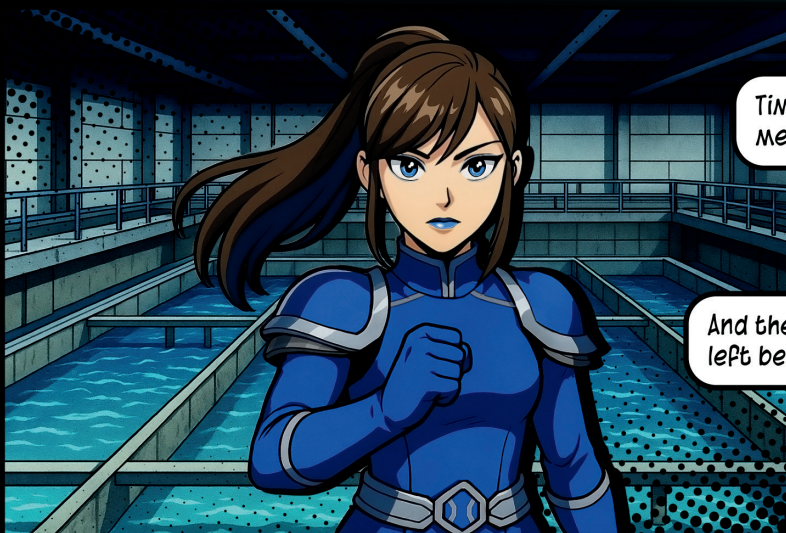

The toxins don't define you...
They never did!

Guided by hope, armed with science, Dewey begins the impossible—cleansing more
than just her wounds

Let's wash away what they did to you... and what the pain made you become.

We've got work to do!

Time to clean up the mess I made...

And the ones THEY left behind!

MEANWHILE...

Beneath the city, where secrets fester and power plots, the villains gather to change the game. What was once a rogue experiment is now a threat to their control. And in this room, threats are answered with escalation.

THE END... FOR NOW

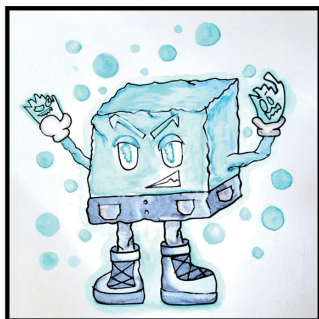

To bring Dewey's adventures to life, Multipure invited students in grades K-5 to imagine a villain that threatens our water. Kids submitted original artwork and a short explanation of why Dewey must stop them.

The winning entry, Toxic Girl, became the inspiration for this very adventure. Joining her are the second and third place winners, who appear in the final page of the comic as Tony Toxin and Frostbite.

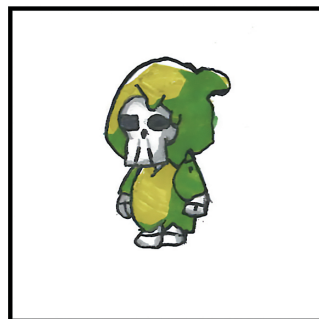

"Toxic Girl wants the water to be harmful because when she was a little girl, lots of water was not clean. She didn't know how that happened, and when she got older she started training to become a villain."

-Kirsten
(3rd Grade)

"Frostbite's motivation is to freeze and destroy water resources, thus eliminating all forms of hydration, which would make all life on Earth vulnerable to dehydration."

-Damian
(2nd Grade)

"Dewey must defeat Tony Toxin because he can infiltrate groundwater and concentrate in streams and rivers, ultimately causing ocean acidification turning it to toxic waste."

-Evan
(4th Grade)

AQUAVERSA

Take a look at Multipure's Aquaversa: it's powerful, it's convenient, it's easy to use, and it's affordable. No wonder it's one of the most popular countertop and under sink filtration systems we've had to offer.

AQUALUXE

The Aqualuxe gives you the best in modern drinking water filtration. It is the only water filter machine to feature Multipure's proprietary PureBlock™ technology to remove bacteria, viruses, and parasites in water. The Aqualuxe goes above and beyond other water filters to dramatically reduce not just that, but also the "forever chemicals" PFOA/PFOS, microcystin, lead, disinfection byproducts, and much, much more.

AQUAPERFORM

If you want a countertop or under counter water filter system that offers superior performance and convenience, consider the Aquaperform. This system is perfect for anyone concerned about the presence of Arsenic-V and many other contaminants in their water. It is a water filter with performance beyond the norm.

NEW!

AQUAPREMIER

Multipure's Aquapremier delivers powerful Nanomesh™ technology that is NSF-certified to reduce bacteria, viruses, and tough contaminants such as lead, mercury, forever chemicals, and microplastics, giving you cleaner and healthier water right from your tap.
